Rate schedule approval looms

Sewer project second phase set to proceed

By GEORGE MALEK

The vote by Washington C.H. City Council on Nov. 26 amending the engineer's contract and accepting the federal grant for the proposed sewer improvement project brought debate over the pros and cons to a halt — at least temporarily.

With the exception of possible debate over the new sewer rates, the second phase of the project is likely to proceed quietly and unnoticed by most Washington C.H. area residents.

However, sewage disposal users will be paying for the second phase to the tune of some $150,000. This is the city's share of just over $600,000, the total engineering fee for the second phase.

In light of the expense to local residents, it seems appropriate to outline the engineering work and other matters relating to the second phase.

The first related matter will be presented publically at Wednesday night's Council meeting. City Council is expected to consider ordinances imposing new sewage rates and establishing a policy toward system usage by non-city residents.

It is also expected that by the time of the council meeting, members of the governing body will have received recommendations from a citizens committee chaired by Hugh S. (Bud) Patton, a former City Council member. Although there has been no information on the committee released since it was first organized two months ago, City Council chairman Ralph Cook stated at the last meeting that a report would be forthcoming.

If the new rates are hurried through Council under an "emergency" label, they could become effective in January, but it is unlikely that the necessary machinery could be implemented until the second quarter of 1976.

Presumably, the new rates will be implemented as soon as possible after determining a suitable rate schedule.

The second phase engineering work will begin in January, according to C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd. of Worthington. Completion of the second phase is expected to require approximately 18 months.

During that time, the engineers will make a detailed analysis of the city's sewer network, survey the land, study the sewage treatment plant, and prepare a detailed set of plans for the project. When this has been completed, a set of specifications for the work will be compiled so that the project can be submitted to contractors for bids.

Surveying, studying the plant and analyzing the city's sewer system is expected to require the first three or four months of 1976. The engineers will enter almost every manhole in the city to determine the amount of flow, the position of each sewer line and to check for the possible inflow of non-sanitary water.

Jerry Turner, a member of the city's consulting engineering firm, said that farm drainage tiles enter the system at several points, and these must be routed into the new storm drain system. He added that although the new sewer lines will parallel the present system in most cases, some changes will be required.

He explained, for example, that some of the present lines run underneath area homes. In such cases, an alternate route for the new lines will have to be determined.

The city's maps of the sewer system are largely outdated or incomplete, and part of the work will include a house-to-house canvass of some areas, Turner said. Homeowners will be asked where the sanitary lines from their homes connect with the trunk lines. If the homeowner is not familiar with the sewer system adjacent to his home, the engineers may ask permission to have a look at their basement. "If there are drains in the basement, it is usually not too difficult to determine where the lines run," he said.

At the same time, trunk sewers will be "smoke bombed" to determine whether or not downspouts or foundation drains are connected to the sanitary system, and there will be a visual inspection to determine which private lines are in need of repair.

Turner explained the smoking process. He said that a section of sewer line between two manholes will be sealed off from the remainder of the system. A smoke bomb will then be released in the isolated section. If downspouts, yard drains or other sources of storm water are connected, the smoke will escape and be visible from the street. The smoke will billow out of the gutters if drain-spouts are connected, he said. He noted that the "smoke" is odorless and should present no problems for homeowners.

After the field work is completed, it will require at least eight months for the detailed drawings to be compiled and reduced to construction specifications, Turner said.

Financing of the engineering work will come from the federal grant and revenue from sewer collections. The grant is to be paid to the city in four installments. They are to be received later this month, in February, June, and late summer, 1976.

Although the engineering will probably not be completed until June, 1977, the city will make a third phase grant application in late 1976 to received funding from fiscal year 1976 appropriations. When the detailed plans and specifications are completed, they will be submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for approval.

The detailed plans will include a relatively accurate cost estimate, Turner said. When the plans have been approved by the EPA, the city will be in a position to receive a third step grant offer.

If the cost determined from the detailed plans and specifications is in line with the maximum project cost agreeable to both the city and the EPA, the grant will be offered and accepted by both parties.

After the city has accepted the third step grant (approximately in the fall of 1977), the project will be advertised for bids. If all goes according to schedule to that point, construction would begin in the first month or two of 1978. The actual construction is expected to take approximately two years.

It is likely that construction of the new treatment plant and installation of new sewer lines would begin simultaneously, Turner said. If not, the treatment plant would probably be constructed first.

Should it happen (and it seldom does) that no problems arise, the entire project should be completed and the new sewer system in operation in early 1980.

Coffee Break . .

ALTHOUGH 10 churches or organizations have planned to sponsor Christmas food baskets for needy families in the Fayette County area, more are needed.

Mrs. Edna Naylor, of the Fayette County Community Action Commission's outreach office, said the 10 churches or organizations responding so far have been assigned 43 families.

However, the outreach office, which is organizing the food basket distribution, had received 83 requests for food baskets on Monday and new requests are being received daily.

Mrs. Naylor said possible duplication of food basket recipients can be eliminated by contacting her (335-7977) before the Christmas holiday.

WHAT'S UP? — The Washington C.H. area received a steady downfall of precipitation throughout the night and early morning, but the precise state of the moisture changed by the hour. Some people said it was snow, while others claimed rainfall. To satisfy both viewpoints, the above photograph was taken at the Washington Cemetery.

Kissinger delays Moscow trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is holding up a final decision on a trip to Moscow until he has assurances from the Soviet Union that it is ready to break the nuclear arms deadlock.

U.S. officials said Kissinger made the point to Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin after summoning him to the State Department Monday evening.

Kissinger still intends to confer with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in the Kremlin before Christmas, those officials said.

But he has yet to make a decision between two options: tacking Moscow on the end of a trip to Western Europe he begins Wednesday or returning home and then setting out separately to see Brezhnev.

These well-placed officials, who barred use of their names, emphasized that Kissinger is keeping these options open until he is assured that the Soviets are prepared to make a deal.

He remains convinced that only Brezhnev has the authority to break the deadlock over a new 10-year treaty to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

At one point, the administration considered a meeting between Brezhnev and Kissinger or possibly President Ford in conjunction with the Soviet leader's participation in a Communist world conference in Cuba. But Brezhnev's uncertain health at 69 may keep him from traveling to Havana this month, so a tentative decision was made to send Kissinger to Moscow — provided prospects for a settlement were good.

Earlier, sources here said Kissinger was authorized to make new overtures on the Soviet Backfire bomber and the U.S. cruise missile, the two principal hangups in the negotiations.

But this will depend on the Kremlin's willingness to accept limitations on where the Soviets place their bombers and to exempt thousands of cruise missiles from limitations under the treaty.

Kissinger returned from the Far East on Monday and held a string of meetings with top aides before seeing Dobrynin.

He is spending only 50 hours in Washington before flying off to Western Europe for a NATO meeting in Brussels and a conference of energy producing and consuming countries in Paris.

If Kissinger is convinced the Russians are prepared to make a nuclear deal he will arrive in Moscow on Dec. 18. If not, he would come home after a side trip to Spain to try to accelerate an agreement to retain U.S. control over major American air and naval bases there.

The Soviets have insisted on counting the U.S. cruise missile, a pilotless vehicle similar to the World War II buzz bomb, against the ceiling of 2,400 delivery vehicles agreed to by Ford and Brezhnev at Vladivostok in November 1974. The United States, on the other hand, wanted the Backfire bomber, which operates at subsonic speeds, counted against the Soviet total.

Sen. Church sets presidential race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, says he may become the 11th Democrat to seek his party's 1976 presidential nomination.

Church told a news conference here Monday that he planned to form a committee next week to "determine whether it's possible to put together an organization and gather sufficient money to make it possible for so late an entrant to launch a campaign for the presidency."

He attended a party Sunday night for about 135 Democrats and gave "a very strong indication he was going to run," according to one person who was there.

And in Washington, close aides said Church is virtually certain to become a candidate and that he would likely announce his decision soon after the first of the year.

At Monday's news conference, Church answered enthusiastically when asked about what he would do if he were president. Concentrating on the intelligence community, he said he would reduce the Central Intelligence Agency covert operations wing by 90 per cent and put what was left under control of the State Department.

Church, whose committee has been holding hearings on the CIA, said he would not cut out covert operations entirely and added:

"If there's any kind of covert action that could be justified, it would be the kind that when our hand is exposed we could say, 'Yes, we are damn proud of it.'"

When the Idaho Democrat was appointed last March to chair the committee to investigate the intelligence community, he said he expected to gain no political mileage from the job and told reporters he would not become involved in any political campaign "for the full life of this committee."

The committee's "full life" will not end until it issues its final report at the end of February or the beginning of March.

But the spokesman for Church said the senator now feels free to become involved in national politics because the "bonecrushing" work of the panel's investigation into alleged misconduct by the CIA, FBI and other intelligence agencies has been completed.

The Church political committee will be headed by Clark Burke, a Boise attorney who has managed all four of Church's campaigns for the Senate. The committee's finance chairman will be Stanley Kimmelman, who directed the successful fund-raising for the 1972 presidential race of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

Bill Hall, Church's Senate press secretary, said that once the committee is formed as required by the election law, attempts will be made to test sentiment for Church among

Patricia Hearst gag order sought by prosecutors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prosecutors, accusing Patricia Hearst's lawyers of using the media to create sympathy for the jailed heiress, have asked a judge to issue a gag order barring attorneys from further public comment on the case.

The government's motion Monday charged that defense lawyers F. Lee Bailey and Al Johnson waged a "publicity campaign devoted to evoking a sympathetic public image for the defendant by stressing her mental condition."

The result of the publicity, the government alleged, "can only be to influence potential jurors."

Johnson said, "I consider the request for a gag order to be entirely inappropriate since government agents of as high status as the attorney general of the United States have chosen for the past 19 months during her captivity to effectively diminish the presumption of innocence in her favor by branding her with such comments as being a notorious criminal."

He said he was referring to a statement by former U.S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe.

Johnson said the motion does not accuse the defense of any court violation anywhere. He did not say whether he intended to oppose the government motion.

The attorney said last Tuesday that Miss Hearst had been losing weight rapidly, looked pale and gaunt and had "emotional problems in converting her thoughts to speech." However, the sheriff's office said she weighed within half a pound of what she weighed when she was jailed 12 weeks ago.

The defense had maintained in previous statements that Miss Hearst was suffering mentally from the effects of her kidnapping by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst, daughter of San Francisco Examiner president Randolph Hearst, said in tapes and written messages several weeks after her kidnapping that she had joined her captors. Miss Hearst is accused of helping the SLA rob a San Francisco bank April 15, 1974.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter was asked to issue a gag order to prevent attorneys on both sides, and other principals in the trial scheduled to start Jan. 26, from making public comment.

U.S. vetoes anti-Israeli move in United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has cast its 12th veto in the United Nations Security Council to defeat a resolution condemning Israeli air attacks on Palestinian camps in Lebanon.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told the 15-nation council his government, as a principal mediator in the Middle East, could not support the resolution because it did not censure guerrilla violence against Israel and therefore was one-sided.

Thirteen countries voted for the resolution, and Costa Rica abstained. "The condemnation is there," said a spokesman for Lebanon, which had asked the council to take action against Israel.

The resolution condemned the Israeli government for its air attacks last week in which the Lebanese police said more than 100 persons were killed. It called on Israel "to desist forthwith from all military attacks against Lebanon," and it warned that if such attacks are repeated, the council would consider further measures.

Moynihan said the United States strongly deplored the Israeli raids. But he said the council should also condemn the Palestinian guerrilla raids into Israel which the Israelis say their raids are designed to check.

Moynihan submitted amendments to the resolution condemning all acts of violence, "especially those which result in the tragic loss of innocent civilian life," and appealing to all parties to refrain from any action that might endanger Middle East peace talks. But the amendments got only seven of the nine favorable votes needed to add them to the resolution.

The vetoed resolution was sponsored jointly by Cameroon, Tanzania, Iraq, Guyana and Mauritania. The Soviet Union, China, Byelorussia, Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Sweden also voted for it.

The U.S. amendments were supported by Britain, Costa Rica, France, Italy, Japan and Sweden. China and Iraq announced they were not participating, and the other six council members abstained.

It was the third veto cast by the United States to kill an anti-Israeli resolution because it did not also condemn Arab violence.

Israel boycotted the debate because the council invited the Palestine Liberation Organization to take part. Israel has also said it will boycott a council debate on the Arab-Israeli dispute next month because the PLO is to be invited to take part. But diplomatic sources in Washington said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is trying to get Israel to drop its opposition to the PLO participation.

Reds winning out in Angolan war

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet-backed faction in the Angola civil war, outgunning its two rivals both militarily and diplomatically, probably will emerge as the dominant political force in that country, U.S. officials say.

The reported gains by the pro-Moscow Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) come at a time when President Ford is under fire from Chinese leaders as well as several Republicans for not taking a tough enough stand against the Soviets.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said last week the United States "cannot remain indifferent" to Soviet activities in Angola. Some U.S. officials say Kissinger is considering a more forceful way of expressing U.S. indignation over Soviet policy.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan told the U.N. General Assembly Monday night that Soviet involvement was an "effort to recolonize Africa."

The assembly is debating resolutions on foreign intervention in Angola, and Moynihan urged a condemnation of Soviet involvement.

The official U.S. position is one of complete neutrality in Angola, but it is widely believed that American arms are reaching the two factions arrayed against the MPLA. In addition, there are occasional reports that the United States is involved in covert activity there.

The two anti-Russian factions are the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA), which also has the backing of China, and the Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), which also has the backing of South Africa. Both factions recently have lost ground in the face of massive Soviet arms aid to the MPLA and a Cuban expeditionary force which is well trained in the use of Soviet weapons. Some 3,500 to 4,000 Cubans are believed to be assisting the MPLA.

Democrats ready plan for delegates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Democratic leaders say eight of their party's 10 declared presidential contenders have expressed no strong opposition to the newly announced plan for selecting Ohio delegates to the 1976 national convention.

Paul Tipps, state chairman, told a news conference Monday he has been in touch either with candidates themselves or their campaign managers except for Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp and R. Sargent Shriver of Maryland.

He hopes to have letters out to them within the next week, Tipps said.

The state chairman outlined for newsmen the plan—already approved by the Democratic National Committee—under which Ohio Democrats will pick 114 delegates in the state's 23 congressional districts and 38 at-large, or statewide, delegates.

Tipps said a special feature of the plan, virtually assures state party leaders of their chance to attend the national convention, unlike four years ago when then-Gov. John J. Gilligan and others lost their seats in pre-convention maneuvering.

Under the new plan, the 38 delegates at-large, mostly state and party leaders, would be allocated among the presidential candidates for a first ballot convention vote. The allocation would be based on the number of delegates each candidate had elected in the congressional district primaries, Tipps explained.

The chairman said candidates still would have the option of fielding a slate of 38 delegates at-large, but would have to bear considerable added expense while winding up with no more first ballot votes than they would receive anyway, under the so-called proportionate representation plan.

He said party officials have discussed the plan and met with "no strong objections" from eight of the ten announced Democratic presidential contenders.

Otherwise, the new Democratic plan calls for pre-election primary caucuses in each congressional district for each candidate running in that district—all at the same hour and on the same date.

Tipps said that scheme was devised to prevent loading of caucuses with non-residents of congressional districts who could attend caucuses and vote although not eligible to become a delegate candidate.

The state chairman said he had been assured by attorneys in Ohio and by those of the national committee that the plan is on safe legal ground.

Candidates for delegate to the convention have to file in Ohio by March 25. Ohio's primary—one of the last in the nation—will be June 8 next year, about a month later than previously.

Kissinger contempt showdown nears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Otis G. Pike, chairman of the House intelligence committee, says he will ask the full House to cite Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger with contempt of Congress "in a couple of days" unless members of his panel tell him not to do so.

Pike filed a contempt resolution against Kissinger on Monday as Secretary of Commerce Rogers C.B. Morton announced he had settled a similar dispute with a House subcommittee.

Morton agreed to turn over to the subcommittee subpoenaed names of U.S. companies which were asked by Arab countries to boycott Israel. The subcommittee agreed not to publicly disclose the names unless it decides to do so by a majority vote.

Pike rejected a compromise offer from President Ford before filing his contempt resolution against Kissinger in the House.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., told newsmen he would try to head off the House contempt vote today but said he did not know if he could get the votes to do so.

"I think we're close enough to work something out," Aspin told newsmen. "If we vote, that's blown it. Then we can't negotiate."

Although contempt of Congress carries a maximum one-year jail sentence and $1,000 fine, Pike said, "I do not believe it would ever get to the point that Mr. Kissinger would prefer to go to jail rather than provide information to Congress."

Kissinger remained aloof on the contempt move against him and said he was leaving any settlement with Pike's committee up to the White House.

Women militants rap Stevens on discrimination statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Organization for Women is asking President Ford to withdraw the Supreme Court nomination of John Paul Stevens because he said he would be "more concerned" about discrimination against blacks than against women.

Stevens, who is returning for further testimony today before the Senate Judiciary Committee, told the panel Monday that blacks "are a more disadvantaged group" than women.

The committee and the full Senate are expected to approve Stevens' nomination to the high court.

His testimony led NOW President Karen DeCrow to issue a statement saying, "NOW is disgusted at this blatant example of the white male power structure pitting women against minority males and making us all scramble for the crumbs of power."

Ms. DeCrow said, "The NOW board is profoundly shocked that President Ford is not able to see the significance not only of not appointing a woman to the bench but of appointing a man who is so against women's rights that he does not even understand the issues of civil rights for women in 1975."

Stevens also told the committee Monday that he believes in equality of the sexes. But he said he is not sure the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution would accomplish much beyond the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment, "aside from its symbolic value."

Stevens also said he is against putting any litigants, even victims of past discrimination, in a favored class. Instead, he testified he felt "my primary obligation is to deal with litigants impartially."

The issue of "reverse discrimination" was raised by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said he thinks that in the civil rights area courts have recognized that simply striking down discriminatory laws is not enough.

Kennedy said they frequently have gone beyond that to require affirmative action, like school busing, to remedy the effects of long patterns of discrimination.

He wanted to know if Stevens, now a judge on the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, was "sufficiently concerned" to feel that judicial action of that kind is necessary.

Stevens told him that in many cases affirmative action by the courts is necessary, but he added that "these things really depend on the facts in a particular situation."

Stock list slips

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined gradually today after failing to make a mild early rally attempt stand up.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up a little more than a point in the early going, was off 3.23 at 818.40 by noon. Losers outpaced gainers by about a 5-4 margin in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said investors appeared to have resumed a wary, wait-and-see approach once it became clear that the market's attempt to rally from last week's sharp declines was attracting little support.

Texaco was the early volume leader on the Big Board, down 1/2 at 23 1/2. A 200,000-share block traded at 23.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .21 to 45.70. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .47 at 81.32.

voters and political leaders.

The intelligence committee's last public hearing will be about Dec. 18 or 19. Formation of the Church political committee could be announced shortly before or after those dates.

Church has indicated that because of his late start in the crowded Democratic field he is inclined to skip all early primaries, including those in New Hampshire and Florida.

But Hall said a Church entry in the March 2 Massachusetts primary is being considered seriously because of what Hall said was support there from liberals who applauded Church's leadership of congressional efforts to legislate an end to the war in Vietnam.

Governor faces alimony outlay

MADILL, Okla. (AP) — Gov. David Boren will have to pay $124,800 in alimony according to the terms of a divorce granted at the request of his wife of eight years.

Since Boren did not contest the divorce and the waiting period had expired earlier, the final decree on Monday was only a formality.

Associate District Court Judge Lynn Ables granted Janna Boren, 30, the $124,800 in alimony she had requested, to be paid at the rate of $650 per month for 16 years. She also was granted custody of their two young children, Carrie, 5, and Dan, 2, and $500 a month for child support.

Opinion And Comment

They're there to vote

When it comes to serving well in the Senate or House, attendance is not all. Down through the years there have been some notable examples of senators and representatives who were pretty consistently on hand but did not turn in illustrious performances.

THESE DAYS.... By John Chamberlain

Labor suffers from public service strike

Ella Grasso, the Democratic governor of Connecticut, is giving it a good try as a budget balancer in a time when incipient tax rebels are multiplying all over the place. But she was up against the competition of private industry when she proposed that state employees extend their working week from 35 to 40 hours.

The seven-hour day has become part of a universal expectancy, and even in eight-to-five shops it is honored in the form of long coffee breaks, generous lunch hours, and early holiday dismissals.

So, when the state employees' union threatened to shut down all state business rather than forego overtime for anything more than 35 hours, the numerous 35-hour private sector workers, who have a vested interest in preserving their own schedules, posed a formidable pressure group threat to any legislator who might feel disposed to back the governor.

The head of the Connecticut state labor council of the AFL-CIO, John Driscoll, put it bluntly when he said the 35-hour week is "not new." Pointing to the generality in the insurance city of Hartford, he observed that "they have it at the Travelers and at the Aetna."

ORIGINAL PLAN

John Maynard Keynes was up against the problem of union expectancies in the 1930s when he pondered the necessity of reducing real wages to a point which would make renewed investment and profitability possible in high-cost industries. The Keynes solution was to hold wages at current nominal levels, letting monetary policy and the concomitant price rise do the business of knocking the workers' real wages back to a point where they could be digested as a cost. John L. Lewis, with the new Wagner Act to support his collective bargaining drive, crossed Keynes by forcing wages to go ahead of productivity, thereby precipitating the "depression within the depression" of 1938. But the early Keynesians at least gave it their own good try.

The question faced by Gov. Grasso - and innumerable other state, county and municipal functionaries throughout the country - is how to let government employees keep their nominal gains without feeling sufficiently menaced to go on strike against the public welfare. The problem is how to find ways of increasing the individual state worker's productivity within the time span of the 35-hour week. There must be ways in every public service administrative agency or bureau to cut down on unnecessary or postponable services, thus making it possible for a worker to do in 35 hours what he is now doing in 40 at overtime rates.

ALTERNATIVE SOLUTION

Wouldn't it have been simpler for Ella Grasso to order a ban on overtime for the coming tax year? There could be a reward to employees of money saved on appropriations within the 35-hour span. Drivers' licenses could be issued for six years subject to good road behavior, with stubs going out to individuals to be returned, with the proper fees, every two years. Auto registrations could be recorded and fees received on a similar basis, good for the life of the car.

The labor leaders should feel cooperative about productivity increases when they contemplate the psychological damage that is done anytime a public service union chooses to strike. There is nothing like a teacher walkout, for instance, to make the case for a revival of private schools or for vocational training via an apprentice system.

When a firm can't get police protection or public transit in an urban community, it begins to look into the benefits of relocating in a suburban area where parking facilities come cheap. The public service strike separates the sheep from the goats by showing the taxpayer just who on the state or municipal payroll is dispensable.

Actually, who would care if the state were to fall a month or two behind on a lot of its bureaucratic business? Drivers would continue to drive their cars on last year's license plates. If summonses were issued to them, there would be nobody to hear their explanations in court.

A good municipal strike, besides being an inconvenience, can be profoundly educative. The public school teacher, when faced with the necessity of buying municipal bonds with his pension money in order to keep his employer in business after granting him an uneconomic pay raise, will think twice about striking the next time.

There is a moment of truth when the myth of the general strike is exposed for everybody to see. The public service strike invites the taxpayers' strike. That will be next on the agenda if our Gov. Grassos and Mayor Beames don't get their way about productivity.

Steel surge seen likely

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel company analysts say that first-quarter steel shipments in 1976 should reach 21 million tons, signaling a solid surge in steel demand.

The analysts told Industry Week magazine that shipments in the first quarter of 1976 are expected to show a 15 per cent to 20 per cent increase from the estimated 19 million to 19.5 million tons shipped in 1975's fourth quarter. The trade weekly says that bookings for January are running 15 per cent to 20 per cent ahead of this month's. The magazine says January shipments are expected to rise from between 7 million tons to 7.5 million tons.

The upward turn also is being fueled by orders for tinmill products as canmakers seek to beat a tinmill product price hike effective Feb. 1.

The magazine says most tinmill product makers have followed the price increase pattern of 7 per cent to 8 per cent established recently by National Steel Corp. U.S. Steel corp, however, has been offering single-reduced tinmill products at a lower price than its competitors.

One market that has not shown improvement, the magazine says, is construction. The publication predicts that the construction industry is expected to pick up in the second quarter of 1976, reflecting the usual seasonal renewal of business and continuing economic recovery.

For the week ended Nov. 29, raw steel production was 1,985,000 net tons. The magazine estimates that raw steel production in the week ending Dec. 6 reached 2,053,000 net tons.

"I'll tell you what he's carrying in that case. World problems, air-line schedules, three contempt citations."

Volunteer firemen seek better image

AUSTINBURG, Ohio (AP) — The chief of Ohio's volunteer firemen says he'd like to see improvement both in the image and training of fire fighters, though he feels both are better than they used to be.

"A well-trained fireman is a safe fireman," says William Loomis of Austinburg, president of Ohio State Firemen's Association, Inc.

"One of our aims," Loomis said in a recent interview, "is to upgrade the image of firemen in the state from a poker playing fireman to a dedicated public servant."

Loomis, himself a volunteer since 1949, added that his association also is fighting the rivalry between full-time and volunteer firemen.

"We are growing aware of each other's importance," he said.

"I would like to have the association work for legislation bettering the training and education of the fire service, to continue to upgrade the image of firemen, and to let the public know how much time and effort firemen spend," Loomis said.

"The association is trying to educate firemen to the latest methods of firefighting," he added. "We've worked hard for legislation to create a fire-safe Ohio. We have tried to work in cooperation with other fire associations in Ohio, especially the Ohio Fire Chiefs."

One of the joint efforts was production of a color-and-sound film showing effects of sprinkler systems in public buildings.

"Every fireman is constantly exposed to hazards that endanger his life," he said. "There has been several times when I've been fearful of life and limb. The constant training we have makes us realize what we're up against, and that can make the difference between life and death."

His regular job is night garage supervisor for Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. A member of Austinburg Fire Department for the past eight years, he serves as that volunteer organization's insurance officer.

Mrs. Amelia Jenks Bloomer, 1818-1894, after whom bloomers have been named because she urged her sex to use the type of garment worn by Turkish girls, lived in Mount Vernon, Ohio, from 1853 to 1855. She edited a weekly temperance paper called "The Lily."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She's perplexed by her husband's peeks

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you out of desperation. After nine years of marriage that I thought was good, I have to face the fact that my husband is a "peeping Tom."

Three years ago he watched my sister take a bath. She caught him. There was an ugly scene. I made excuses for him—"It was an accident, etc."—and he really seemed sorry for having done it. I finally got over it.

Well, last night he did it again. This time it was another sister. He knew she would be trying on some clothes, so he arranged the curtains for a peep hole, then sneaked outside to watch. He hadn't planned on my needing him for something at the time. When I couldn't find him in the house, I went outside and caught him looking in the window at my sister. I didn't want anyone to know what was going on, so I didn't make a scene.

Abby, I am heartsick. I love him so much, and he is such a good man in every other way. I've never said no to any of his sexual demands, yet I feel that it must be my fault.

Could he become dangerous? I don't know how many other windows he's looked into. Please help me.

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: The chances for your husband being "dangerous" are very small. Most voyeurs (people who like to look) are usually harmless, but on the chance that he is not, talk to him about it and insist that he phone the local Mental Health Association for an appointment to discuss his problem with a professional. He can overcome it if he wants to.

DEAR ABBY: My mother and I are having a disagreement. I am 19 and was engaged for six months. I recently broke up with my boyfriend and can't decide what to do with my beautiful (and quite expensive) engagement ring.

I think I should keep it because it was given to me as a gift. My mother and my boyfriend think I should give it back because the ring was given as a promise of marriage, and since I broke that promise, I should return it.

I don't care what the etiquette books or the lawyers say, I want to know how you feel about it.

KEEP ME ANONYMOUS

DEAR KEEP: I think that when a engagement is broken—regardless of who broke it—the ring should be returned.

DEAR ABBY: There are a lot of dogs in my neighborhood, and I will tell you right now that I am no dog lover. I don't like their yapping when I'm trying to sleep, but worse yet, I don't like what they do to my lawn and bushes—if you know what I mean.

There must be something a taxpayer citizen can do about this problem. Whom should I call? And where can I go?

HATES DOGS

DEAR HATES: You don't say where you live, but you can call your police or sheriff. And if you ask some of your dog-owning neighbors, they will be glad to tell you where to go.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Traffic Court

A Greenfield man was fined $50 and sentenced to serve 30 days in jail with the jail time suspended providing he not break any traffic laws for one year.

Acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case found Perry L. Barnes, 21, Greenfield, guilty of speeding during Monday's court proceedings. Barnes was arrested by the Ohio Highway Patrol on Nov. 28, at the intersection of Ohio 41 and Miami Trace Road. He had been traveling at a velocity of 68 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone. This had been Barnes second speeding offense this year.

Judge Case fined several other persons who had committed traffic offenses and accepted numerous bond forfeitures.

Ali plans mosque

CLEVELAND (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali has purchased the old Federal Department Store building in southeast Cleveland for more than $300,000 and plans to convert it into a Muslim mosque, bowling alley and shopping complex, an associate said today.

Eugene Dibble, executive vice president of Muhammad Ali Enterprises, Chicago, estimated it would cost Ali another $1 million to renovate the building.

Dibble said Ali is also trying to acquire a shopping center in Florida and a site in Louisville, Ky., on which he wants to establish a Muslim mosque and school.

He said Ali just opened a fast food store in Chicago called Ali's Trolley. Dibble added that it cost $60,000 more to build than what he and Ali had estimated.

Officials at the Exchange National Bank in Chicago, which is listed on Cuyahoga County records as trustee of the department store building, declined comment and would not confirm the purchase by Ali.

Dibble said, however, there was "no question that he's going ahead with the plans. It's just a matter of getting the contracts signed and setting the final costs."

Jeff motorist hurt in crash

A Jeffersonville area man was injured in a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of U.S. 35 and I-71 Monday night.

Lovett was admitted to Fayette County Memorial Hospital for treatment of the injuries.

According to the report, Lovett was traveling eastbound on U.S. 35 when he applied his brakes, skidded across the center lane near the I-71 intersection and collided with the right rear side of a tractor-trailer rig driven by James C. Barnhart, 21, of Kansas City, Kan. Barnhart was also headed eastbound on U.S. 35 in the passing lane.

The collision demolished Lovett's auto. The tractor-trailer rig was slightly damaged, according to the report.

Court upholds therapist limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Limits on the amount of reimbursement independent physical therapists can receive for treating patients under the Medicare program were upheld by the Supreme Court on Monday.

Twelve Ohio therapists challenged the restrictions as unconstitutional discrimination against them. They contended they were forced by state law to practice only under certain arrangements, usually through their association with hospitals and other providers of health services.

In another case involving Ohio, the Supreme Court refused to grant a bicentennial-year hearing to 15 Indian tribes who claim they were cheated of their land because they fought for the English in the Revolution.

The justices chose not to review a ruling of the U.S. Court of Claims, which denied compensation for approximately 20 million acres of land in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan.

In the Medicare case, Solicitor General Robert H. Bork defended the challenged provision as a proper Congressional attempt to limit federal spending. The provision said therapists could be reimbursed only by an amount equal to what they would have been paid if they were salaried employees of the hospital or other provider.

The therapists lost a 2-1 decision before a three-judge district court panel in southern Ohio, and the Supreme Court summarily affirmed that judgment.

Meaning of Advent season explained to Twin Oaks Club

Members of the Twin Oaks Garden Club and their guests motored to Waynesville for the annual Christmas party at the Heritage Square 1776 Inn. The dining room was beautifully decorated with pine cone wreaths and a large tree decorated exclusively with partridges and pears.

After a dinner served at long tables centered with candles and rings in the partridge and pear motif, everyone gathered around the huge burning fireplace for a short business meeting and program planned by the president, Mrs. James Braun and Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes.

To celebrate the Advent Season, which is observed for four Sundays preceding Dec. 25, Mrs. Braun described each phase of the Advent wreath as Mrs. Hoppes assembled the parts and lighted the candles. After the wreath was completed, she read the Christmas Story taken from Matthew 1:18-25.

Continuing with the Advent theme, Mrs. Bruan displayed an Advent calendar with 24 windows representing the 24 days before Christmas. As each member read a line of Scripture, the window portraying that verse was opened.

In keeping with the Bicentennial spirit of the season, Mrs. Hoppes read a story, "Christmas in the Colonies" and Mrs. Braun read "A Victorian Christmas," both taken from the book "Christmas in Colonial and Early America. Mrs. Braun then read a humorous poem, "The Night After Christmas."

Two contests, Letters to Santa Claus and Blind Man's Bluff, were enjoyed with prizes going to the winners.

After the gift exchange around the lighted tree, everyone was taken on a tour of the Inn, which is in the process of being enlarged and redecorated in Early American style.

Those present were Mrs. Willard Bonham, Mrs. James E. Bonham, Mrs. Harold Bonecutter, Mrs. Kenneth Bonecutter, Mrs. Dana Kellenberger, Mrs. Rick Wilson, Mrs. Virgil Garringer, Mrs. Ralph Whaley, Mrs. Eugene Thompson, Mrs. L.C. Hoppes, Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Mrs. Roger Thompson, Mrs. Tom Braden, Mrs. Harold Craig, Mrs. Charles Blizard, Mrs. Joe Bonham, Mrs. Donald Bonham, Mrs. Hoppes, Mrs. John Marcum, Mrs. Lloyd Sanders, Mrs. W.E. McFadden, Mrs. Braun, Mrs. Paul Pope and Mrs. Ted Kneisley.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN FREE

Miss Hamilton, Mr. Free exchange marriage vows

Miss Gloria Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hamilton, became the bride of John Free, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Free, all of Greenfield. The Rev. Clair S. Emerick officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church, Greenfield, following a prelude of nuptial music by Dan McCray, organist.

A fifteen branch candelabra and two nine branch spiral candelabra arranged with greenery and white satin bows framed the candle-light altar. The parents' pews were marked by single brass floor candelabra with lighted tapers encased in crystal globes. Family pews were marked with alternating bows of lilac, blue and white, the color scheme of the wedding.

The bride wore a gown of cotton Venise lace underlaid with white satin. The fitted bodice featured a high waistline and high collar. Lilac taffeta underlaid the lace yoke and wide cuffs of the full sheer lace sleeves. Lace ruffles outlined the yoke and enhanced the cuffs at the wrists. The skirt ended in a lace flounce underlaid with lilac taffeta and caught at the hemline with lilac bows. Her chapel length veil of sheer bridal illusion was bordered with soft white marabou feather trim.

A white Bible was carried by the bride, and crowned with white poms interspersed with lily-of-the-valley and cascading lilac marabou feathers touched with matching bows. Her only jewelry was a white gold pearl set entwined hearts necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Sandy Hamilton, maid of honor, and Miss Teresa Hamilton, bridesmaid, both sisters of the bride wore floor length gowns styled like that of the bride. Sandy wore lilac and Teresa wore blue, with headpieces of clusters of matching floral print petals. They carried hurricane candles ringed with fresh flowers that matched their gowns, and their gifts from the bride were engraved maid of honor and bridesmaid charms.

Tonya Hall was the flower girl, and she wore a long frock of the same material and style as the bridegroom. She wore a matching lilac and blue bow on her hair and carried a dainty wicker basket of lilac and blue petals.

Mrs. Hamilton chose for her daughter's wedding a formal length gown of lime green with V-neckline with collar and wide flowing sleeves of harmonizing floral print. She wore a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Free, mother of the groom, wore a blue floral print formal length gown with long sleeves. She, too, wore a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Chuck Free served as best man for his brother. Another brother, Phil Free, performed the duties of head usher. Other ushers were Steve Hamilton, George Hamilton, and Fred Hamilton, brothers of the bride. Mark Free, brother of the groom, carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

A reception followed in the church dining room. A lilac, blue and white color prevailed in the decor. The bride's table was laid with white linen cloth draped in lilac caught up in swags in floral bows. The five-tiered pedestaled cake was decorated in the pastel colors of the wedding and topped with miniature bride and groom figurines.

Mrs. Gerald Wallace was senior hostess. Other hostesses were Mrs. Dwight Lucas, Mrs. Richard Junk, Mrs. Charles Patton, Mrs. Karl Free and Mrs. James Free, aunts of the groom. Mrs. Thomas Padrick, cousin of the bride, and her aunt, Mrs. David Lee Smith.

The evening preceding the wedding, the parents of the groom held the rehearsal dinner at their home on New Martinsburg Rd.

The newly married couple are both graduates of McClain High School. He is employed at the Triangle Co. Mrs. Free is employed at The People's Bank, Greenfield. The bride's father is employed as meat cutter in Washington C.H. at Kroger's.

The couple is now residing on Beaty Rd., Rt. 1, Greenfield, following a wedding trip to Cove Haven Honeymoon resort in the Pocono Mountains, Pa.

Auxiliary holds meeting and holiday party

The Eagles Auxiliary opened the meeting held Monday evening in ritualistic form, with Jeannie Minchell presiding. There were 13 members present, and nine applications for membership were balloted. Mrs. Hazel Bonner won the attendance award and Miss Teresa Combs the secret package. The Auxiliary also gave a donation to the Rhinehart family fund.

The next meeting will be held at 8 p.m., Dec. 29. A district meeting is planned for 2 p.m. Sunday in London, No. 950.

The annual Christmas party and 14th anniversary party was a joint celebration by the Eagles Auxiliary, when guest speaker was Past Grand Officer Joy Penick of Newark. She is also state chairman for the project - "Peck 'O Wee Ones" a home for the mentally retarded from one to six years of age. Members brought gifts for the home in lieu of a gift exchange.

Fifteen charter members and four past madam presidents were honored, and the guest speaker was presented a red rose corsage, as was the president, Mrs. Minshall.

There were 68 present. The Lodge Hall was beautifully decorated for the season, with a lighted Christmas tree in full view.

Concert attracts many

Approximately 650 persons were present for the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the Fayette County Choral Society in the sanctuary of Grace United Methodist on Sunday afternoon.

The next rehearsal of the Society will be Jan. 5 in the home of Mrs. John P. Case, 330 Jupiter St., at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Sells class hostess

Mrs. Lucy Sells was hostess when the Queen Esther Class of First Christian Church met at the church. Thirteen answered roll call and Mrs. Mabel Whitmer, president, conducted the meeting and Mrs. Hazel McNorton read devotions from the Book of St. Matthew and St. Luke and the poem "Alone With God."

Two guests, Mrs. William Rockhold and Mrs. Artie Thompson, were present. The class voted to retain the same officers: President-Mrs. Whitmer; vice president-Mrs. Sells; secretary-Mrs. Blanche Purcell; treasurer-Mrs. Wilma Van Wey; and reporter-Mrs. Leora Graham.

The class will also purchase a poinsettia for the church, then present it to a shutin for Christmas. A donation was also made to the family of the late James Rhinehart. Mrs. Purcell and Mrs. Van Wey made reports, and cards were signed for shutins and the ill.

Mr. Luther McCarthy, class teacher, closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sells, Mrs. Whitmer, Mrs. McNorton and Mrs. Ona Miller.

Famed traveler and commentator Lowell Thomas was born in 1892 in Woodington, Darke County, Ohio.

Henry Howe, 1816-1893, whose early history of Ohio was published by the state government, often expressed strong personal opinions in his works, as when he wrote: "Columbus is afflicted with the great American contagion and nuisance, the baseball nine."

School payment delay feared

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Full payment of the first $200 million installment of the new equal-yield subsidy for Ohio public schools could be delayed by a legal snag in the state's emergency borrowing plan.

The State Controlling Board gave auditor Thomas E. Ferguson "blanket authority" Monday to borrow money from healthy accounts this month and next to help ease the state through a traditionally low-income period.

But the controllers said Ferguson could not transfer $45 million from the auto registration fee fund without legal approval from Atty. Gen. William J.

At commission meet

Objections voiced over sewage rates

The objections of residents of the Culpepper No. 3 Subdivision, off Ohio 41-N, apparently have not altered the Fayette County Board of Commissioners scheduled water and sewer rate schedule for the service area.

However, the commissioners are pursuing the residents complaints about the quality of water being provided.

Approximately 10 residents of the subdivision approached the county officials Monday with a two-fold complaint — the rates are too high and the water is terrible.

The commissioners discussed the rates which have been established at $12.50 per month for water and sewer treatment. With assistance from engineer Don Conley and city treatment plant superintendent Orville Dixon, the commissioners explained the reason for the rates, including the operating and maintenance costs involved.

Deputies investigate two chain saw thefts

The theft of two chain saws in unrelated incidents was reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department today along with a stolen engine and a blood relay. Washington C.H. police officers reported a stolen speaker and several stolen tapes.

A chain saw valued at $338.95 belonging to Langdon McCooy was taken from the garage at his 2969 Ohio 753-SE residence sometime during the past three weeks, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported.

A second chain saw, this one owned by Virgil Barker Jr., London, was stolen from the Paul Allen farm on Hidy Road sometime between 12:50 p.m. and 1:20 p.m. Monday. Sheriff's deputies reported Barker had been cutting wood and left the saw where he was working while he went to lunch.

Four-car mishap probed

A four-car collision on Gregg Street was reported by Washington C.H. police today along with two additional traffic mishaps.

A car driven by Shirley F. Johnson, 30, Greenfield, pulled from a parking space in front of 608 Gregg Street into the path of a car driven by James E. Hurless, 19, of 225 Olive St. at 2:23 p.m. Monday. Police stated the resulting collision caused the Johnson auto to ricochet into a parked car owned by Daud L. McLaughlin, 608 Gregg St. and the Hurless auto to bounce into a parked car belonging to Penne S. Wheaton, 607 Gregg St. Police charged Ms. Johnson with starting without safety. No one was injured.

A car belonging to Gary L. Paul, 1212 E. Temple St., was severely damaged

Brown's office.

The auto-fee fund is one of several accounts Ferguson and Budget director Howard Collier want to tap to provide $134 million so the state can pay its bills during the next seven weeks.

Earlier Monday the attorney general questioned the legality of transferring the auto-fee money even though the loan would be repaid by the state. Brown said the Ohio Constitution stipulates that revenue from the fees must be used for highway purposes.

Collier said the attorney general's reservation about the borrowing device "came as a surprise to all of us.

Most of the group appeared relatively satisfied that the rates were justified, but felt that they deserved better quality water for their money.

In light of their complaints, the commissioners have requested assistance from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency. EPA representatives will meet with the county board next Monday. Together they will inspect the water treatment facility to see whether or not the purification process is adequate.

The commissioners are scheduled to assume the operation and maintenance of the water and sewer facilities the first of the year. The facilities were constructed by developer Jess Gilmore with the understanding that the county would assume the facilities at a later date.

The operations now serve some 50 families and is expected to eventually serve 100 homeowners.

When he returned, the saw valued at $225, was missing.

A four-cycle engine valued at $100, owned by Donald M. Early, Jamestown, was taken from an abandoned farm lot on Davids Road, near the Greene County Road sometime between Dec. 4 and Dec. 8 Sheriff's deputies are investigating.

Ten units of B positive blood was brought from Columbus to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy David L. Souther at 9:58 a.m. Monday.

One rear speaker and 25-30 tapes belonging to Clarence P. Yahn, 737 Washington Ave., were stolen from his auto sometime between 9 p.m. Sunday and 10:30 a.m. Monday while the locked car was parked on the side of Yahn's residence. Washington C.H. police estimated the loss at $200.

by a hit-skip driver at 2:15 p.m. Monday, who collided with Paul's auto parked in front of his residence and knocking it 39 feet and onto the sidewalk. The unidentified driver then left the scene. Police are seeking the person responsible.

A van driven by David E. Moore, 53, of 178 Eastview Drive, backed from a parking space in front of the post office on W. Market Street into a car driven by Ann K. Garringer, 53, of 1126 Lakeview Ave. The accident which occurred at 2:02 p.m. Monday resulted in minor damage to both vehicles according to police reports.

Snow or a mixture of rain and snow that greeted Ohioans this morning was expected to change to snow by this evening.

During the night, around one inch of snow fell from Toledo to Dayton. Further east, the precipitation was mainly in the form of rain, depending on the temperature.

A travelers advisory remained in effect for northwestern Ohio today, where accumulations of two to four inches were expected.

Low pressure centered over the Ohio Valley this morning was forecast to move to New York by Wednesday morning, so the precipitation should taper off to scattered flurries in Ohio later tonight.

Temperatures today were to range from 30 to 35 in the northwest to between 35 and 45 in the southeast. Tonight's lows will be in the 20s.

The outlook for Wednesday calls for partly cloudy skies and continued rather cool, but a little warmer weather is seen for Thursday and Friday.

Fair Thursday and Friday, a chance of showers Saturday. Highs in the 40s and low 50s. Lows in the upper 20s and the 30s.

The first organization of Spanish American War veterans took place in Cincinnati, Ohio.

30 Saudis back oilers

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A group of 30 Saudi Arabian students are providing an enthusiastic cheering section for the Findlay Oilers during the absence of most of the student body during the holiday break.

The Saudis, who are enrolled in an intensified language training course, attend every basketball game the Oilers play at home and show their support through shouting, clapping, stomping, beating on the bleachers in a strange rhythmic fashion and yelling bilingual chants.

The Saudis also are sharing a dormitory with the basketball players during the long holiday break running from the last week of November through the first week of January.

That pretty much lowers attendance at the Oilers' seven home games. But coach Jim Houdeshell says the Saudis fill the gap.

Houdeshell says he doesn't know how his players feel about the Saudi noisemakers, but other spectators seem to enjoy their antics.

Jailhouse lawyers discouraged by courts

By RICHARD BENKE
Associated Press Writer

The odds are against them, the courts discourage them, and prosecutors and public defenders disapprove of their legal dabbling. Still, jailhouse lawyers are growing in large numbers.

They have something they want to say. They are broke and can't afford a lawyer. They don't like their court-appointed public counsel. They want to learn about the law. They have lots of time.

Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, convicted of attempting to assassinate

President Ford, chose to represent herself "in propria persona," as lawbooks call being one's own attorney. The court heard her views on ecology and a variety of other subjects before the privilege was revoked.

Other notables handling their own cases have included Symbionese Liberation Army members Russell Little and Joseph Remiro, convicted of murdering Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster; and former University of California philosophy professor Angela Davis, who was acquitted of murder charges stemming from allegations she submitted the gun used in a San Rafael, Calif., courtroom shootout.

Judges prefer to keep such cases to a minimum, fearing too many will clog the court calendar with lengthy semi-competent legal wrangling.

"The court discourages it (self-representation)," said Joan McIntosh of the public defender's office in Fresno, Calif. "It puts the courts in the position of teaching defendants the law." In the past, jailhouse lawyers had to convince a judge they were competent to handle their own defense, but as a result of a ruling handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court last June, a defendant need only be warned of the possible consequences if he proceeds on his own without a lawyer.

"Now you can have it for wanting it," said Stuart R. Rappaport, chief of the trial division of the Los Angeles public defender's office. But he warned: "Almost anybody who represents himself is going to be convicted."

Since the Supreme Court ruled on June 30 that Anthony Pasquall Faretta of Los Angeles had the right to be his own attorney the number of jailhouse lawyers has tripled in Los Angeles County.

In other urban areas, the recent trend also has been toward more prisoner self-representation, according to a spot survey by The Associated Press. Cumulative nationwide figures were not available.

"It's very fair to say that more residents of state prisons are seeking (their own) court relief following their conviction than in past years," said a prison official in Massachusetts, where a prisoners rights suit three years ago resulted in the creation of law libraries in jails and prisons throughout the state.

Jailhouse lawyers interviewed complain that public defenders are overloaded with cases and go along too readily with judges and prosecutors in bargaining for a guilty plea by the client.

"A defendant is going to demand every right in court," said Los Angeles County prisoner Dennis Rutherford. "I fired my lawyer, got a new hearing on my own and I won the issue that he lost."

"The public defender assumed I was guilty," said Joseph B. Garcia, 27, of Santa Monica, Calif., who got part of the robbery case against him dropped after firing his court-appointed lawyer.

"I made a deal and went to prison twice at the suggestion of the public defender. Never again," said Roy Newsome, 31, of Los Angeles, now on trial for escaping from a courthouse.

Rappaport denies he helps "railroad" defendants but agrees court-encouraged plea bargaining can undermine a defendant's confidence in his lawyer. "It compromises our position," he said. But he maintains jailhouse lawyers bring most of their troubles on themselves out of ignorance.

Some increase in prisoners' filing petitions, especially habeas corpus legal briefs asking release from custody, has been noted in New York, West Virginia, Missouri, Ohio and Nevada, although apparently no formal statistics on such cases are being kept.

The incidence of jailhouse lawyers in Illinois "mostly comes in political trials where someone wants to get his message across," said Henry Sheffler, an official with the Cook County public defender's office.

"I would guess political activist types charged with crimes will try to represent themselves because they want to interject whatever political ideology they have into the case — a forum for their own political beliefs," said Kenneth Wells, head of the public defender's office in Sacramento, Calif.

Most prisoners interviewed said they act as their own attorney for lack of money to hire private counsel.

"It's money," said Barry Mintzes, spokesman for the Michigan Department of Corrections. "Most of the inmates are able to file as indigents, so they don't have to pay court costs in filing."

The number of jailhouse lawyers in Los Angeles peaked at 55 following several court rulings favoring "pro per" defendants, those who represent themselves "in propria persona."

The boom ended when the Superior Court issued a memorandum of understanding cutting back on pro per privileges in 1972. Since the memorandum the number of inmates asking to represent themselves had fallen off substantially until the Faretta ruling last June.

Southern State to offer adult classes in Macon

WILMINGTON — Southern State College will offer adult continuing education classes at the south campus in Macon for the first time beginning the winter quarter in 1976. These non-credit classes were previously offered only at the north campus in Wilmington.

Evening classes at the south campus include painting, antique collecting, conversational Spanish, and sheep management. The classes will be held at Eastern Brown County High School on U.S. 62-S.

Painting will also be offered at the north campus, along with nearly 100 classes in such areas as trade and industrial, business and office, agricultural and health and home management education. Special interest leisure-time courses designed for fun and personal enrichment are expected to draw many students according to Harry Johnston, director of the adult continuing education program at Southern State. Johnston also stressed the fact that classes will begin not only in January, but also anytime thereafter whenever a minimum of 15 students enroll.

"We also hope to offer classes at many off-campus locations throughout our five-county area wherever facilities and any necessary equipment are available to meet enrollment demands," Johnston said.

Business and industrial firms may also arrange to have certain classes offered to their employees at their own sites of operation.

Enrollment for adult continuing education classes is presently underway and will continue through Feb. 2. Call the Adult Education Office at 382-6646, ext. 31 for more information and a free brochure. Office hours are 2 p.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Fridays.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — For two seasons the Public Broadcasting Service has operated what it calls the Station Program cooperative, in which public TV stations defray the cost of about half the shows they get on the PBS national hookup.

Now, they're also getting a new program-buying system called the Station Acquisition Marketing Plan, or SAM, in which each station can buy programs for a fixed fee based on the size of the station's market.

How do the two systems differ?

John Montgomery, PBS' programs chief, says the cooperative is intended to help stations produce national programming for public TV. SAM, he says, is intended to let station officials look at — and possibly buy — completed programs offered by various sources.

In the cooperative plan, PBS stations each spring are given the opportunity to pledge financial support for proposed public TV series or pay to keep an established series on the air.

Each station is asked to pay a predetermined percentage of the cost of a series being offered. But the per-station price may rise or fall, depending on how many stations do or don't buy the program.

There is no price fluctuation in the SAM system, Montgomery says. Each station is offered a program or series on a fixed-cost basis. It must pay the price it's quoted or it can't air the program.

He says when a program producer or syndicator wants to offer a show via the SAM system, PBS officials first look at it and decide "if it's something we want to offer the (PBS) system."

If it is, he says, PBS sets a minimum national price which is the total of the market-by-market fee worked out in negotiations between PBS officials and those wanting to sell the show to public TV stations.

If not enough stations buy the offering and the minimum national price isn't reached, he adds, the deal is off. If that happens, the program producer or syndicator has to go back to the custom of past years, travelling from city to city and showing the wares to station officials in each market.

In the SAM system, begun last August, samples of the wares can be shown simultaneously to station managers on a closed-circuit transmission via PBS' national hookup, thus avoiding those time-consuming personal visits to individual stations.

If enough station officials like what they see and agree to buy it, PBS then feeds the entire offering to the purchasing stations on its national hookup. Each station tapes and airs it when it chooses to.

19-year-old sent to prison for taking dime from boy

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Neighborhood bullies who end up in court before Judge Harold Galbraith may wish they picked on somebody their own size.

The Montgomery County judge said he doesn't like "big kids ripping off little kids on the playground," so Friday he sentenced a 19-year-old to six months in the workhouse for stealing a dime.

Judge Harold Galbraith found Herman Keith Holt, 19, of Dayton, guilty of stealing a dime from a 12-year-old and issued the sentence to be served in the Cincinnati workhouse.

Two other boys involved in the theft were juveniles and escaped Galbraith's sentence.

Vandalia City Prosecutor Richard Davis gave this account of the Nov. 12 incident:

The 12-year-old and a friend who was a year older, but smaller, were playing in a Vandalia playground when three youths in a car pulled up.

They called to the youngest boy and demanded money. When he said he had none, he was threatened with a broken pool stick.

Then he explained he had a dime, but needed it for a phone call.

Davis said the young victim testified that Holt and one of the juveniles got out of the car and walked him over to the monkey bars. The other juvenile called out after them: "Do you want the gun?"

They held him up against the monkey bars, demanded his money and found a set of keys in his pocket.

"It'll cost you a dime to get these keys back," they told him.

The boy told Galbraith he gave them the dime and they ran, throwing back his keys.

Holt and the two juveniles were arrested after a Montgomery County Sheriff's deputy spotted the car the victims described. The youngsters identified the thieves.

Holt originally was charged with aggravated robbery, but the charge was reduced to theft, a misdemeanor. Holt pleaded innocent and denied he asked for money, but Galbraith found him guilty after the trial.

Fundamentalists hit state interference

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Singing and praying, about 8,000 fundamentalist Christians stood on the capitol steps Monday and demanded that the state leave their church schools alone.

The rally, sponsored and organized by a group called Christian Schools of Ohio, urged the state to stop what participants said is harassment of parents who choose to send their children to unaccredited church schools.

"God-fearing parents have been treated like common criminals," the Rev. Dr. Roy Thompson of Cleveland told the noisy but orderly crowd. "We're Christian people. We love Jesus Christ. We don't want to fight, but we will."

"God has given us a mandate to teach our children, and His authority is higher than anyone else's," the Rev. Dr. Thompson said. "In God's name, help us, and we'll pray for and help you."

The statewide rally culminated weeks of local meetings where preachers voiced displeasure over state educational standards.

The church leaders say the state sets unreasonable and irrelevant standards for accreditation in an attempt to deny parents the right to provide their children with a Christian education.

Gov. James A. Rhodes and several state legislators pledged their support to the effort. An American Civil Liberties Union official told rally leaders that the ACLU has voted to support the church people.

The protests were sparked earlier this fall by court action against three sets of parents. The Franklin County prosecutor attempted to have five children legally declared "neglected" because they were not enrolled in an accredited school.

If the action had been pursued successfully, it would have given the county juvenile court the right to remove the children from their parents.

Church leaders say that was the intent. The prosecutor, noting that the case was dropped, said it was intended only to impress upon the parents the importance of their children's education.

Rhodes told the crowd that he supports "the right of every citizen of Ohio to send their children to church-supported schools. The church school is the last bastion of discipline in our school system."

Rhodes was interrupted several times by applause during his short speech. He received an extended ovation at its close, and the Rev. Dr. Thompson, president of the church school organization, offered a prayer for Rhodes.

Southern State purpose explained to Kiwanians

The purpose behind the Southern State General and Technical College is to make continuing education available to anyone who desires to improve, said college president Dr. Lewis C. Miller.

He was the guest speaker Monday night at the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club meeting in the Terrace Lounge.

Dr. Miller explained that there has been a constant desire to see that educational and vocational facilities were readily available to those who wish to continue their education.

From this desire in state legislators grew the vocational school concept and the two-year state college. In 1972, the Great Oaks Vocational School District was established with a branch campus at Laurel Oaks, on the former Clinton County Air Force Base, outside Wilmington. It offers career oriented courses to high school juniors and seniors. The vocational schools also offer adult programs in the form of night courses.

The high cost of college educations and the travel required for many colleges prompted investigation into the prospects of community, two-year colleges. Southern State College was created to serve a five-county area. The campus at Wilmington serves Fayette, Highland and Clinton counties while a campus in Brown County is accessible to residents of Brown and Adams counties.

The school offers two-year associate degrees in applied business and applied science. It also offers a two-year program of pre-liberal arts training. At the completion of the program, a student transfers to a four-year college to continue toward his degree.

The establishment of the two-campus college facility offers each resident of the five-county district access to an inexpensive continuing education program. Most residents of these counties are within 30 miles of the campus.

One fear surrounding the establishment of the state schools was the drain which might appear on nearby private colleges. While Wilmington College students are paying $60 per hour for courses, Southern State College students are taking the same course for only $15 per hour.

Dr. Miller stated, however, that only seven of Southern State's 140 students have left Wilmington College to attend the state school.

In January, Southern State began preparation for its first full academic year. When the fall class schedule began, there were 507 full-time students enrolled in the school's 12 technical areas.

The school employs 75 instructors and has set a goal of 700 students for the next academic year. The college has applied to the North Central Accreditation Association, and expects full accreditation within five years.

The school is also willing to bring some courses to surrounding communities if the need exists, Dr. Miller said.

Members of the Miami Trace High School Key Club attending the meeting were Stewart Waters and Jeff Crabtree.

President Duane French reminded members that the club's Christmas dinner party will be held at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 15 in Persinger Hall, First Presbyterian Church, and the membership voted to make a cash contribution to the Fayette County Choral Society.

Miniature 'crane' guards plutonium

MIAMISBURG, Ohio (AP) — A safeguard which resembles a miniature overhead crane is being developed to make plutonium an easier substance with which to work. The Automated Plutonium Assay system, controlled by a computer, is under development at the Mound Laboratory and is designed to keep constant tabs on plutonium supplies without a human operator. Project leader Dr. Walter W. Strohm says the machine will furnish "real time material accountability" with an alarm that sounds the instant any plutonium becomes unaccounted for. He said it would be one of a number of safeguards, including physical security and intrusion alarms, to prevent the theft or diversion of plutonium, the toxic, radioactive material that can be used to make atomic bombs.

Trace set for mat opener

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

After a month of grueling workouts on the mats the Miami Trace Panther wrestling team will get a break from the monotony of grappling with a teammate and have a chance to test wrestling skills with new faces Wednesday.

The Panther grapplers under second-year coach Glenn Jacobsen open the season this week with a home match against Springfield Northeastern.

Miami Trace sports a young team — only three seniors will take to the mat this year — but it is by no means inexperienced. Eleven Panthers return to their respective weight classes.

Heading the list of returnees is senior Jay Crummy who took the league's 167-pound title last season. Crummy will wrestle a class higher, 175-pound, this season and coach Jacobsen is expecting fine things from the team co-captain.

Senior Kurt Klontz is the other Panther captain and he has also moved up a weight class to 145-pounds. Klontz got off to a good start last season before suffering an injury, but went on to become one of three returning Panthers to post an individual winning record.

Crummy and Scott Martin (138-pound class) recorded the other two winning marks and Jacobsen has high hopes for the latter, who is just a sophomore. "He's improved tremendously and has a fine attitude," the Panther coach said.

Junior Kirk Stuckey is also expected to help the Panthers score valuable points in matches this season. He will remain in the 155-pound weight class this season and Jacobsen lists strength as his greatest asset.

Randy Slutz, a sophomore, will wrestle in the same, 105 pound, weight class as last year. As a freshman, Slutz posted a 6-8 record.

Freshman Rick Ward will hold down the 98-pound class while newcomers Mike Dunton and Don McKeever vie for a varsity spot at 112-pounds.

The 119-pound weight class has the most depth as five Panthers fight for a varsity berth. Senior Herb Smith and sophomore Marcos Miramontez are the only two with varsity experience, but three freshmen, Todd Anderson, Mike Dennis and Doug Merritt, are offering stiff competition.

Jacobsen has two strong wrestlers at the 126-pound class in Mike Hill and Bruce Fennig. Both are juniors and Jacobsen lists them as about even for the varsity spot.

Wrestlers with apparent spots on the reserve team behind standouts Kirk Stuckey and Klontz are Jim Matson, Eric Crabtree and sophomore Dave Hennessy, who Jacobsen lists as a bright prospect.

Senior Jeff Creamer returns at the 167-pound class along with sophomore Shawn Riley as the two veterans fight for the varsity honors.

Another battle is going on at the heavyweight class, where junior Chris Schlichter is being "kept on his toes" by sophomore Randy Sams.

Sophomore John Burr will be trying to fill the big space at 185-pound class left open by the graduation of Mark Moore, who posted the Panthers' best individual record last season. Burr is considered strong and quick by the Panther coaches and they have high expectations for him.

Assisting Jacobsen with the coaching duties this year will be Roger Dunton, who had a son (Don) on last year's team and has another son (Mike) on this year's squad.

Jacobsen said his new assistant has been invaluable with helping the team with the technical aspect of the sport.

The Panthers have some tough meets scheduled, the invitational at Dayton Wayne being the most obvious, but Jacobsen feels the competition can only help the team when the league meet rolls around.

Circleville, Wilmington, Hillsboro and Madison Plains are the four other league schools that field a wrestling team and with the exception of Madison Plains — which is returning to the league after a year layoff — are strong according to Jacobsen.

Wednesday's season opener with Springfield Northeastern is slated to begin at 5:45 p.m. The Panthers will then travel to Columbus on Saturday for the annual eight-team Franklin Heights Invitational.

Brown sees rematch as nothing big

CINCINNATI (AP) — The heralded rematch of the Cincinnati Bengals with the Steelers at Pittsburgh Saturday is not the "big game" predicted, according to Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown, who does not believe the Steelers will lose their last two games. "When you put it in perspective," said Brown, whose team record is 10-2, "even if we should win we're still at the mercy of how they do against the Los Angeles Rams the following week."

Cincinnati needs a victory after losing to the Steelers earlier, to match Pittsburgh for a tie in the NFL's American Conference Central Division.

Pittsburgh has one more victory than Cincinnati, which is hoping for a wild card birth in the playoffs. However, a tie record between the two clubs at 11-2, would give the title to Pittsburgh because it would have won more games in the Conference, 5-1 against 4-2.

"On the other hand," said Brown, whose team whipped the Philadelphia Eagles 31-0 Sunday, "we do control our destiny with respect to being a wild card team in the playoffs. One more victory in either of the last two games would take care of that." Cincinnati plays San Diego in the last game.

Gregg says Browns should have won

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's disappointed coach Forrest Gregg says the Browns should have beaten Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Sunday.

The Browns, who have reached an early season goal of respectability just in the past five weeks, led 17-7 before dropping a 31-17 decision at Pittsburgh.

"You may think I'm crazy," Gregg said, "but I think we should have won the football game. We played well enough in spots to win the game, and our defense through most of the game was very good."

"We put great pressure on their quarterback—made him throw the ball faster than he wanted to most of the time," Gregg added.

"Watching the films this morning," he said with a shake of his head, "we had the opportunities and didn't take advantage of them."

Hoosiers keep poll lead

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Indiana remains the overwhelming choice for the top spot in the Associated Press' college basketball poll, while Maryland has solidified its standing as the nation's No. 2 team.

Indiana, idle last week after opening its season with a resounding 84-64 triumph over defending champion UCLA Nov. 29, garnered 57 first place votes from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters participating in this week's poll, announced today. The Hoosiers, rated second to Tennessee on the other two ballots, received 1,176 points out of a possible 1,180.

The next five clubs on the list retained their positions from last week, although Tennessee barely missed climbing into the top five.

Maryland, 3-0 after whipping DePaul 99-42 and Richmond 98-71 last week, was a clear-cut choice for second place with 1,048 points. Marquette, 2-0, with victories over St. Joseph's, Ind. 87-60 and Northern Michigan 56-45, retained third place with 838 points.

But last week Marquette trailed second-place Maryland by just 85 points; this week the gap was 210.

The voting was based on games played through Sunday, Dec. 7. Indiana and Maryland continued their winning ways Monday night, the Hoosiers beating Florida State 83-59 and the Terps defeating Boston U. 122-82.

North Carolina beat Seton Hall 75-63 and Virginia Tech 88-75 last week to raise its record to 3-0 and remain in fourth place with 793 points.

UCLA bounced back from its opening loss to Indiana by defeating San Jose State 90-80 and Southern Illinois 81-60 and received 584 points to keep hold of the No. 5 rating in a threeteam dog-fight.

Louisville, 2-0 after a 78-59 triumph over Murray State, polled 576 points and remained in sixth place. Tennessee, 3-0, beat Duke 86-80 and Michigan 82-81 last week and climbed one notch to seventh with 568 points, including the two firstplace votes that eluded Indiana.

Completing the Top Ten were Notre Dame, 3-0, 519 points; Cincinnati, 4-0, 355, and Arizona, 4-0, 327. Each climbed one spot from last week's rankings.

Kentucky, ranked seventh last week, dropped out of the Top Ten after losing to Northwestern 89-77. The Wildcats, 0-1, were rated 14th in the new rankings.

Alabama, 3-0, climbed three rungs on the ladder from last week and headed the Second Ten with 284 points. San Francisco, 3-0, remained No. 12 with 270 points and North Carolina State, 3-0, held onto the 13th spot with 237 points.

Completing the Second Ten were Kentucky, 0-1, 141; Washington, 4-0, 75; Nevada-Las Vegas, 4-0, 66; Auburn, 2-0, 65; Michigan, 1-1, 57; Arizona State, 3-0, 56, and Missouri, 4-0, 42.

Nevada-Las Vegas and Missouri are the only newcomers to the list, while Providence and Kansas State dropped out of the elite. Providence lost to Alabama 71-67 last week, while Kansas State posted two victories but also suffered an 81-80 loss to Southern Cal.

Here are the Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college basketball poll with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Sunday Dec. 7 and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Indiana whips Seminoles, 83-59

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Florida State Coach Hugh Durham thinks he knows how to beat top-ranked Indiana. Getting it done, however, is another matter.

"It's important to get off to a good start," Durham explained. "Then there are two ways to play against Indiana — either run at them or go into a freeze."

So how come Indiana whipped Durham's Seminoles 83-59 Monday night, at one point leading by a whopping 38 points?

"We didn't get that good start," Durham said. "They probably have the best defense in the country. We couldn't attack their set defense, so we tried to run. We had the shots — but didn't hit them."

Eight other members of the AP's Top Twenty also played Monday night, and most of them came up winners.

No. 2 Maryland romped to a 122-82 decision over Boston U., No. 4 North Carolina pulled away in the second half and beat No. 14 Kentucky 90-77, No. 8 Notre Dame outlasted Kansas 72-64, No. 9 Cincinnati tripped Biscayne 74-52, Kansas State upset No. 10 Arizona 71-61, No. 11 Alabama defeated Middle Tennessee 76-62 and No. 20 Missouri beat Rice 94-75.

Scott May scored 24 points and Kent Benson added 22 to lead the Indiana assault. Hoosiers Coach Bobby Knight used reserves for much of the onesided game.

Indiana, foiling Durham's strategy, outscored the Seminoles 14-2 at the outset. It was 47-20 at the half and then 79-41 before Knight rested his starters for good.

Maryland, 4-0, led by just 52-44 at halftime but buried BU with a second-half blitz. John Lucas' 22 points and Steve Sheppard's 21 were high for the Terps, who had seven players in double figures.

Mitch Kupchak scored 24 points and Walter Davis added 19 to lead North Carolina past Kentucky.

All-American Adrian Dantley' 27 points led Notre Dame past Kansas. The Irish, 4-0, trailed by four at the half but wore down the Jayhawks on the shooting of Dantley and Don Williams, who had 16 points.

Bob Miller, Cincinnati's sophomore center, scored 19 points and took down 10 rebounds as the Bearcats, 5-0, coasted past Biscayne.

Kansas State, 3-2, made a bid to climb back into the top 20 by upsetting previously unbeaten Arizona, 4-1. Mike Evans scored 11 consecutive points in a 2½-minute span of the second half to build a nine-point lead for Kansas State, and Arizona never recovered. Evans finished with 25 points, while Arizona center Bob Elliott had 20 points and 17 rebounds.

T.R. Dunn and Reginald King brought Alabama back from an early 11-point deficit and the Tide, 4-0, went on to beat Middle Tennessee.

Willie Smith scored 27 points to lead unbeaten Missouri to its fifth triumph of the year. The Tigers broke from a 22-22 tie to a 49-34 halftime lead over Rice, then turned back a comeback by the Owls and won going away.

Meanwhile, undefeated Illinois took an easy 90-73 win for its fifth victory of the season over North Dakota State.

Sophomore forward Audie Mathews hit for 21 points, including six of seven first-half field goals, and the Illini's Rich Adams contributed another 20 to pace the win. North Dakota State's Steve Saladino was high scorer with 24 as the losers dropped to 3-1.

Wisconsin's Dale Koehler started sluggishly but paced the Badgers to an easy 97-77 win over the shorter Northern Illinois Huskies in Madison, Wis.

Wisconsin Coach John Powlow had called Koehler's shooting substandard earlier, and he hit for only seven points in the first half as the Badgers took a 46-33 lead at intermission.

Cards trade Reitz to gain Falcone

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have turned third base over to hardhitting minor leaguer Hector Cruz by sending Ken Reitz to the San Francisco Giants for lefty pitcher Pete Falcone.

"He (Cruz) has been the best ballplayer in the minor leagues the past two years," Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst said Monday in announcing the trade at baseball's winter meetings.

"The Giants have needed a third baseman for a number of years and Reitz is a good ballplayer," Schoendienst added.

The Cardinals are expecting big things from Cruz, based on the opinion of Ken Boyer, manager of their Tulsa farm club.

"Boyer is very high on Cruz," said Bing Devine, general manager of the Cards.

Cruz, who teamed with his brothers, Tommy and Jose, in the St. Louis outfield when called up late in the 1973 season, was named the Most Valuable Player in the American Association last season. He clubbed Class AAA pitching for 29 home runs, 116 runs batted in and a .306 average.

The trade is subject to approval by the National League because of the impending sale of the Giants.

Reitz, 24, gives the Giants the league's Gold Glove winner of 1975. He hit .269 with five home runs and 63 runs batted in last season after a .235 rookie year in 1973 and a .271 campaign in 1974.

"We didn't have any good left-hand pitching prospects in the minor leagues," explained Schoendienst. "We hope to start Falcone, that's what we acquired him for."

Oakland defense sacks Broncos

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders' defense rose to the occasion by knocking down Denver quarterbacks John Huftnagel and Steve Ramsey all night.

"Ten sacks! That's what makes my job easy — when the line is putting pressure on the quarterbacks," said rookie safety Charles Phillips, who intercepted three passes in the Raiders' 17-10 victory over the Broncos in a nationally televised game.

Otis Sistrunk, from his defensive tackle position, led the charge on the Denver passers. He took part in five of the sacks which took some heat off the Oakland offense and helped the playoff-bound Raiders win their seventh straight National Football League game.

The normally explosive offense run by quarterback Ken Stabler seemed to be working with a silencer. Denver was ahead 3-0 on Jim Turner's 18-yard field goal which followed an Oakland fumble in the first period.

"They took almost everything away from us," admitted Stabler, who completed just two of his first nine passes and suffered two interceptions. Oakland's offensive efforts had accounted for only 30 yards by late in the second quarter.

But Horace Jones then sacked Huftnagel, making his first NFL start, at the Denver 21-yard line and the Raiders drove 44 yards after taking a short punt. Fred Biletnikoff shook loose to catch passes which gained 15 and 16 yards and Harold Hart ran two yard for the touchdown which sent Oakland ahead.

In the third quarter, after Phillips' third interception against Huftnagel, the Raiders drove 48 yards for another touchdown, scored by Pete Banaszak on a one-yard run. That was about it offensively.

Denver outgained Oakland by 76 yards, 254 to 178, despite the 74 yards subtracted from the Broncos' total by the 10 sacks.

"Still, Oakland keeps on winning, and you can't knock success," said Broncos' Coach John Ralston, whose team is 5-7 and aiming only for the runnerup spot behind the Raiders, 10-2, in the American Conference West.

Ramsey threw a 33-yard pass to Haven Moses to set up Fran Lynch's five-yard touchdown run in the final period and Denver cut the Oakland lead to 14-10.

Rozelle looks at instant replays

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

With referees under fire for controversial, game-deciding calls that dampened one team's playoff hopes and helped kill the chances of another, National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle is looking more seriously at the use of instant replays.

Two weeks ago, the Washington Redskins saw a sure victory over St. Louis turn into a tie — and eventually into a sudden-death overtime loss — when the Cardinals got a disputed touchdown on a fourth-down play in the final seconds of the fourth period.

That play — in which Mel Gray caught the ball but was stripped of it before his feet touched the end zone turf — spurred renewed demands by Washington Coach George Allen that each game have an additional official, one with instant replay facilities to review questionable calls.

On Sunday, Buffalo was knocked out of the playoff picture, losing 31-21 to Miami. The Bills' chances of beating the Dolphins were hurt not only by Don Strock's two touchdown passes and one scoring run but by a call by head linesman Jerry Bergman on an apparent fumble by Miami's Mercury Morris.

The play was ruled no fumble — and when Buffalo's Pat Toomay hit Bergman as he tried to recover the ball, the official hit the Bills' defensive end with a 15-yard penalty.

Rozelle, asked about the possible use of cameras to settle the controversies over such calls as these, said: "If there is a practical way, if the mechanics can be resolved, we are not opposed to it."

He said he will ask the league's Competition Committee to study the feasibility of instant-replay use and report to the league at its annual meeting next March in Coronado, Calif.

Rozelle also said the use of instant replay had never seriously been considered by the NFL, although it has been discussed briefly. Among the problems with using it, he said, are the following:

—"You would have to see the play from many angles, meaning you would need several camera positions."

—"We'd probably have to install our own equipment and we would probably need 10 to 12 cameras in each stadium."

—"We would have to decide how many times the device could be used in a game, whether it would cost a team a time out and who would study the replays and where he would be located."

—"We would have to consider the time element—how long it would take to look at a sufficient number of camera angles to be satisfied you had accurately seen play."

And, Rozelle said, cost factors of installing such a system and a study of whether all NFL stadiums would have enough camera positions available would have to be considered.

Player limit hurts Bowling Green

By The Associated Press

Bowling Green received an early taste Monday of what the new 10-man limit on college basketball traveling squads could mean.

The Falcons lost three starters and their sixth man to fouls and a fourth starter to an ankle injury on the way to an 88-80 victory over De fiance.

Twenty-five violations were whistled on the Falcons and 26 on the visitors. Junior transfer Tommy Harris, formerly of Vincennes, Ind., Junior College, split his 30 points evenly between the halves for the hosts and led all scorers. Dan Hipscher added 20 points.

Bowling Green scored the first eight points and never was headed. De fiance pulled within five points midway through the second half but it was as close as they came.

Don Thornton and John Kornowa led De fiance with 17 points apiece.

The victory raised Bowling Green's record to 2-1 and dropped De fiance to 3-2.

Elsewhere, senior forward Mike Plunkett dominated his team's scoring and the opponents' backboard as Cincinnati Xavier rolled to a 76-65 victory in another nonconference game.

Plunkett scored 19 points and pulled down 13 rebounds as the hosts seized an early advantage and never trailed.

Union's Mike Sammons led all scorers in the contest with 28 points.

Also in Cincinnati, tiny Biscayne stayed on the heels of University of Cincinnati for the first 12 minutes, but the home team finally flexed its muscle for a 74-52 triumph.

Sophomore center Bob Miller hit for 19 points and grabbed 10 rebounds for 10th-ranked Cincinnati, while Biscayne's Arthur Collins had the game-high total of 28 points.

In a game between independents, Steubenville outscored Tiffin 25-12 at the end of the first half and held on for a 79-52 victory. Mark Williams paced Steubenville with 22 points, while Robin Farris had 14 for Tiffin.

Don't Label Temper Tantrums

My family never liked my husband from the day we were married six years ago. It is true that he has bad temper tantrums, but I think it is not fair for them to call him, in his presence, a "schizophrenic." Do you agree?

Mrs. T.G., Del.

Dear Mrs. G.: I most certainly do agree that your family does not have the right to call your husband a "schizophrenic."

Unfortunately, this descriptive term is used far more often than it should by people who are not qualified or who do not understand its meaning.

I believe it is audacious for anyone without highly specialized medical knowledge to use the word "paranoid" or "schizophrenic" to describe a person whose behavior may not be entirely acceptable.

Actually, schizophrenia is a tragic mental disorder, both to the patient and to those around him. The misconception about this condition is so great that the American Schizophrenia Foundation has been created, in an effort to break down the "family shame" so often associated with this and other types of mental illness.

Their educational campaigns urge that all mental illness be brought out in the open so that they can be attacked without shame or stigma. It is obvious that a great deal of hostility exists within the framework of your family. Undoubtedly, labeling your husband a "schizophrenic" does not modify his temper tantrums.

Perhaps his personal insecurity and his feelings of social inadequacy are made worse by such attitudes on the part of your family.

Your own physician and a psychiatrist or psychologist may be able to find the reason for the uncontrollable temper tantrums.

You should see to it that your family is dissociated from the intimacies of your married life. By their hostile behavior to him they can only erode, corrode and even destroy any chances that you might have for helping him in establishing a life of happiness for himself and for you.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... A sneeze should not be suppressed by pressing the nostrils. Back pressure can injure the eardrums. It is better to muffle a sneeze in a handkerchief.

Opening lead - ten of clubs.

Bridge is hard to play flawlessly, as almost all of us would promptly concede. However, the nature of the game is such that the great majority of mistakes go unpunished — and this is as it should be because most mistakes are minor and the good Lord is generally forgiving in such cases.

Nevertheless, the fact remains that a player must occasionally pay for even a minor mistake. That's exactly what happened in this deal where South failed to make a slam he should have made.

He won the club lead and played a low spade to the jack, which also won. But eventually he had to go down one when he lost a trump trick and a diamond.

South would have made the slam had he led the queen of spades instead of the deuce at trick two, planning to finesse. In the actual case, if West covers with the king, declarer takes the ace and, with East showing out, later finesse against West's ten. The only trick declarer loses is a diamond.

The queen is technically the right play, as it wins not only when West has the singleton or doubleton king but also when he has the tripleton king.

Ordinarily, playing the deuce to the jack would not be a fatal error, because it loses only in those hands where West has all three trumps (11 per cent of the time), as opposed to those hands where West has precisely the doubleton king (26 per cent of the time).

Assuming that South plans to finesse in spades, which is his proper play, the queen lead never costs him a trick. But the deuce lead will sometimes cost him a trick, and it is therefore better to start out by leading the queen.

In Focus

by

It was back in 1932 that Dr. Harold Edgerton of M.I.T. developed the basic circuitry to convert stored electrical energy into a short burst of light. With more electricity you could repeat the flash. And that, my friends, was the birth of electronic flash.

Today electronic flash has grown up; highly sophisticated, yet simple and inexpensive. And with Honeywell's automatic flash it's really something. You see, the Honeywell Automatic Strobonas determine the exact amount of light your subject needs for a perfect exposure and delivers just that amount. You don't have to calculate anything. The unit does it for you. Easy? Ask Osgood, he's had one for years. But that brings me to the point of all this. There are lots of photographers (and snapshooters) who haven't gotten around to latching onto one of these automatic outfits. This Christmas would be a great time to bring together the photographers and the flash units. Make a note of that, Santa!

News flash: We just got word that there will be a large price increase in projectors after the first of the year. That makes now the perfect time to get a new Carousel. Yes, I know your problem. There are so many Carousel models you just don't know which to get. Man, that's where we come in. We know the entire line and we'll be glad to help you select the unit that will be right for your needs.

Pocket Instamatics? We've sold out of some models, but we have many still. Check our prices — like $25.95 for the Tele Instamatic model 608 — and you'll find we can save you money and help you help Santa. Come in and look around.

Deputies locate escapee in Ky.

A man wanted on charges of escape from confinement at the Fayette County jail has been arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson reported Max E. Groves, 38, was arrested late Monday afternoon at a residence in Maysville, Ky., by Fayette County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Robert W. McArthur, Sgt. William R. Crooks and two members of the Maysville, Ky. Police Department.

The officers apprehended Groves in the basement of a house at 359 E. Fourth Street in Maysville, Ky., where he had been making his home. Groves had given sheriff's deputies a rural Sabina address when originally incarcerated on a driving while intoxicated charge. He had originally been arrested by Washington C.H. police officers.

Thompson said Groves waived extradition before a judge in Maysville, Ky. and was returned to Fayette County by McArthur and Crooks.

Groves had been indicted by a Fayette County grand jury in November on escape from confinement charges after he walked away from a work detail at the county jail on November 7. According to deputies, Groves had asked jailer-dispatcher Steve Hedges if he could sit on steps of the sheriff's department headquarters and get some fresh air before serving dinner to fellow prisoners. Groves had been serving as a jail trustee at the time.

The sheriff reported Groves will be arraigned before Judge Evelyn W. Coffman in Fayette County Common Pleas Court at a later date on the escape charge.

The sheriff's department learned of Groves' possible location while following up leads developed while investigating the case, according to Thompson.

Moslem forces encircle Beirut Christian units

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian gunmen with their backs to the Mediterranean held out against a fierce encircling assault by Moslem forces in Beirut's downtown hotel and commercial district today.

A police spokesman said more than 50 persons were killed and hundreds were wounded during the night. The government radio said it was "the worst and cruelest night of fighting" in the eight-month-old civil war for control of the country.

Police said at least 125 persons have been killed in the latest round of fighting. It began Saturday night after a massacre by both sides in which police said 128 persons were murdered. The heaviest fighting was in the seaside area that includes the major tourist hotels, the main commercial district and the banking district, once the financial heart of the Middle East.

An estimated 700 Moslems pushed ahead in a pincer movement that virtually surrounded the Christians, cutting them off from the Ashrafieh, their stronghold inside the city.

Half a dozen big fires burned out of control after fierce rocket and mortar exchanges. They included one in the 500-room Phoenicia Hotel complex where Christian militiamen were besieged.

The Moslems apparently were trying to push to the sea near the port of Beirut, which adjoins Ashrafieh, and cut off the Christian fighters in the hotel and commercial district.

Board eyes participation in fair managers meeting

Plans for participation in the annual Ohio Fair Manager's Association convention, night programs at the 1976 Fayette County Fair, and loss of a food tent were the major items on a light agenda at the December meeting of the Fayette County Agricultural Society (Fair Board) Monday night in the Mahan Building.

Frank Weade was appointed as the official delegate to the annual fair managers convention, January 7-9 in Columbus. Harry Thraillkill was appointed the alternate. The 13 directors of the county agricultural society will be participating in various segments of the convention. The Junior Fair session on January 9 will be attended by 15 members of the Junior Fair Board.

Eddie Kirk, vice president of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association, will be conducting the business sessions at the convention.

The fair directors discussed tentative plans for the evening grandstand activities at the July 25-31, 1976 Fayette County Fair. Current plans call for night harness racing on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, a tractor pull on Thursday, and a demolition derby Friday and Saturday night.

A Sunday night opening program has not been set. The fair board is hopeful that a bicentennial program featuring local organizations might be scheduled. Any groups interested in this type of program should contact Kirk.

The board was also informed that the White Oak Grove United Methodist Church would not be returning to the fair with its food tent at the 1976 exposition.

In other matters, the board formally approved the annual report, prepared by secretary George Finley, to be submitted to the state of Ohio.
